Informal discussion among delegates shows several schools of thought among the anti-bone dry advocates as to how the question should be approached. They vary from the state rishts stand taken by itovernor Edwards of New Jersey to proposals that congress be urged to proceed directly toward modifying the one-half of I per cent alcoloidic content restiction of the Voistead enforcement sick so as to lift the ban from beer and light wines.

The movement which appeared to day to have taken the most definite shape was that originating in Washington and designed to offer a basis on which anti-bone dry forces would concentrate. Personal liberty will be the slogan of advocates of this committee of st.

Colby Denies Third Term Is Discussed at Wilson Session

CMICAGO, June 23.—Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state and delegate to the democratic national convention, who stopped off in Chicago today on his way to San Francisco, denied that he was taking any of President Wilson's dictum to the convention.

"President Wilson has too much respect for his party to attempt to intrude his ideas or force his ideas upon the party in an open convention," he said. "I have had many conferences with the president, but we have not discussed a third term, for him, nor candidates for the presidency.

"I promally, I believe that convention will be singularly free from any attempts from any quarter to influence its deliberations or to give directions to its action."

Mr. Colby said he was sure there would be some allusion made to the treaty of Versailles and the league of nations, "As far as I am concerned personally. I believe that the party should go before the people with a definite sfand for the adoption of the treaty." the secretary said. "I am for the league of nations without reservations, because the language of the document is quite clear."
